Read the given passage carefully and answer the following questions: On the eve of Independence, India had before it, two models of modern development: the liberal - capitalist model as in much of Europe and the U.S. and the socialist model as in the U.S.S.R. There were many in India then who were deeply impressed by the Soviet model of development. These included not just the leaders of the Communist Party of India, but also those of the Socialist Party and leaders like Nehru within the Congress. There were very few supporters of the American style capitalist development. (i) Differentiate between the two models of modern development under consideration before independent India. (ii) Which model of development did India adopt and why? (iii) Why did very few Indian leaders support the capitalist model? Ans. (i) The two models of development were the Liberal capitalist model based on free trade, private enterprise and ownership. The other model was the socialist model based on public ownership of enterprise and capital and state controlled economy. (ii) India adopted the socialist model as most leaders in India wanted the state to play a role in the development of the country, rebuild the economy and bring about social justice. The leadership was not in favour of the capitalist model where the state had a minimalist role. This model was considered to be mostsuitable to bring about economic and social equality. (iii) Indian leaders were clear that the government of free India had to rebuild the economy, remove poverty and bring about social and economic justice. This could be done only if the state was a welfare state rather than a minimalist capitalist state. That is why they were against the narrowly defined commercial 1+2+2=5functions of the capitalist state. Q-19. Study the passage given below and answer the questions that follow: Indira Gandhi had emerged as a towering leader with tremendous popularity.

This was also the period when party competition became bitter and polarized. This period also witnessed tensions in the relationship between the government and the judiciary. The Supreme Court found many initiatives of the government to be violative of the Constitution. The Congress party took the position that this stand of the Court was against the principles of democracy and parliamentary supremacy. The Congress also alleged that the Court was a conservative institution and it was becoming an obstacle in the way of implementing pro-poor welfare programmes. The parties opposed to the Congress felt that politics was becoming too personalized and that governmental authority was being converted into personal authority.

Q-22.	What is meant by non-party movements? Describe the main features of such movements.
Ans.	 Non-Party Movements Many politically active groups lost faith in existing democratic institutions and electoral politics. They chose to step outside party politics and engage in mass mobilization for registering their protest. Because of the voluntary nature of their social work, many of these organizations came to be known as voluntary organizations or voluntary sector organizations. They believed in politics and want to participate in it but not through political parties. Hence, the movements organised by them are called, 'Non-party movements'. Their features: They remain outside party politics. They do not contest elections. They continue to work in rural and urban areas. Of late, many of them are funded by external agencies including international service agencies. Ideals of local initiatives is weakened by the availability of external funds on a large scale to these organizations. 	2.4.6

Q-26. Assess the importance of international organizations like the United Nations in the contemporary world.
Ans. Relevance of International Organisations
(i) In a unipolar world in which the U.S is dominant, the UN served to bring the US and the rest of the world into discussions on various issues.
(ii) The U.S also realizes that the U.N is an organization as serving a purpose in bringing together over 190 nations in dealing with conflicts and social and economic developments.
(iii) The UN provides an arena for the rest of the world in which it is possible to modify US attitudes and policies.
(iv) The UN may be an imperfect body, but without it, the world would be worse off.
(v) Due to growing inter dependence, it is hard to imagine a world without an organization like the UN.

	Suggest the type of security India should prefer to fight the threats like poverty, terrorism and epidemics.
Ans.	India has faced both traditional and non-traditional threats to its security. As far as poverty, terrorism and epidemics are concerned, its approach should be: (i) To overcome poverty, India needs to develop its economy so that the lives of vast mass of citizens improve. Huge amount of inequalities should not be allowed to exist. Harmful impact of globalization should be countered by the positive role of the state. (ii) To prevent epidemics proper living conditions, sanitation, clean drinking water, enforcement of Swachh Bharat, proper immunization and education of the people should be there. We need to improve our public health system and work with all stake holders. (iii) To counter terrorism we have to form a firm military strategy, intelligence including cyber intelligence. Yet at the same time our democracy should have space for dialogue and negotiation to deal with groups like Maoists, insurgents etc.

Q-27.	How has globalisation impacted on India and how is India in turn impacting on globalisation? Support your answer with suitable arguments.
Ans.	 The impact of globalization on India (i) India has opened up its markets, from a protective economy. Now it has opened upto foreign investment and privalisation. (ii) It has had positive as well as negative impact on India. Popular consumer items, international brands etc. are available. (iii) This has had an impact on life style and on culture e.g. Macdonalds, clothes, opening of call centres etc. (iv) This has led to deregulation of many commodities like oil, and adverse impact on our farmers. (Or any other relevant point)
	 How india has impacted globalisation (i) India and other developing countries e.g. BRICS have put forward a collective voice in international forums like WTO. (ii) India is one of the fastest growing economy along with China and therefore, an attractive market for investment also. (iii) With its vast English speaking population, there has been a lot of outsourcing in India of call centres etc. (Or any other relevant point) 	3+3=6

	Examine the concept of "Common but differentiated responsibilities" with the help of examples.
Ans.	• There was a difference in approach to environment between the countries of the North and the South. The countries of the North wanted everyone to be equally responsible for ecological conservation. The developing countries of the South feel that much of the ecological degradation of the world is the product of industrial development undertaken by the developed world.

- The special needs of the developing countries must be taken into account in the development, application and interpretation of rules of international Environment Law. This argument was accepted in the Rio declaration of 1992 and is called 'Common but differentiated responsibilities'.
- China, India and other developing countries were exempted from the requirements of the Kyoto Protocol, an international agreement settling targets for industrialized countries to cut the green house gas emissions. The protocol was agreed to in 1997 in Kyoto in Japan, based on principals of the UNFCC.
